

Financial Analyst Intern, Raise Green, Inc. (Remote)

ABOUT RAISE GREEN

Raise Green makes it easy to invest in solar and climate. We are a licensed fintech company that allows anyone to invest in local, community resilience. Our marketplace allows project creators to raise money for their projects through investment from anyone (retail, accredited, institutional). Our inclusive finance model is designed for any project with a contractual cash flow: community solar, microgrids, electrical vehicle infrastructure, community agriculture, energy efficiency, and battery deployments — as long as social and environmental benefits are at the core of their design. We are financing a healthy, just, and sustainable future that allows anyone to access and benefit from climate-resilient local infrastructure.

ABOUT THE POSITION

Our Financial Analyst Intern supports our Head of Projects and Solar Development to evaluate, model, and package potential projects listed on the Raise Green Marketplace. Your primary responsibility is to assist with project management, and use excel to model cash flows and create powerpoint summaries of projects. You will also support other projects across Raise Green as needed, including market & policy research, sales research, and RFI/RFP submissions. Our Financial Analyst Intern has a passion for social justice, sustainable finance, and the environment, as well as a dedication to tidy data and compelling visualization.
